

Postponement Announcement

In response to the recent quick spread of the omicron variant in some big cities in China, the Organizing Committee of the International Symposium on Biorefining, Papermaking, and Lignocellulosic Materials 2022 (ISBPLM 2022) would like to announce a postponement of the conference to allow this situation to resolve. The new dates will be announced in due course.

While the Xi'an Government has taken enhanced measures for disease prevention and control, large scale public events are not encouraged at the moment. The Organizing Committee have decided to make this difficult decision of postponing the conference considering the health and safety of our speakers and attendees under the current public health situation.

The Organizing Committee of the ISBPLM 2022 thank our Co-organizers, Supporters, Sponsors, Supporting Organizations, and all our friends for your immense support towards this conference so far, and express our sincere apologies towards the inconvenience caused under these unforeseen circumstances. We will again be in touch with our speakers, registrants and sponsors for proper follow up arrangements.

Thank you again for your understanding and support, and we look forward to seeing you at ISBPLM 2022 in the near future. Please feel free to contact us (isbplm2022@sust.edu.cn) for any enquiry.
